

Don't further restrict diversity in the media.

I am writing to ask you to please not further limit the diversity of opinion in the nation's media by allowing more TV and radio stations to be gobbled up by the giant media corporations. I'm particularly appalled at what has become of radio. Today no matter where one lives in this country, the same tedious programs and the same virulent rightwing message is being heard again and again. There is no substitute for radio -- not TV, not cable, not the Internet, not the newspapers -- and what has been allowed to happen to it is a national disgrace.

Thank you,
